

SAGEs knew Lockdown would do nothing to stop the virus. Herd immunity only would do that and we now have it or nearly so. Let us free and release COMMON SENSE.

16 October 2020 at 07:47

COVID CAT OUT OF LOCKDOWN BAG

“ There’s one strand to this SAGE/ NHS debacle.

The following remarks by another SAGE member show again that new lockdown is not about keeping us peasants safe from that virus, but only about protecting ‘Our Sacred Cow’. NHS.

Note the unspoken admission that the time of National Lockdown and the months following have been useless:

“Mark Woolhouse, professor of infectious disease epidemiology at the University of Edinburgh, who sits on Sage’s Spi-M modelling subcommittee [... said]:

“A reasonable thing to hope for from a two-week circuit breaker that you might get a four-week break before things return to where they were at the beginning of the circuit breaker — this was known ages ago: we were modelling this back even before the first lockdown in March,” he said.

“You want something to be different at the end of that four-week period. And you have to be very clear what that is.” (link, paywalled)

Ah! So the SAGEs knew already in March that ‘things’ i.e. infections, would go back to what they were before Lockdown?

What has happened since? What has changed?

What is this ‘something different’ the government ought to have achieved?

Does this not indicate to us lay persons that the SAGEs knew Lockdown would do nothing to stop the virus?”

Viv Evans INDEPENDENCE DAILY

Thanks from editor

<http://www.briefingsforfreedom.co.uk/>